REACHING THE WORLD FOR CHRIST

MAGAZINE

Inspired by Jesus' command to fulfill the Great Commission, Calvary Chapel Magazine is a quarterly publication that shares the Gospel through testimonies of missionaries in the field. Compelling photography and stories give you an account of their struggles, heartbreak, and victories.

Big Tent Revival

On a temperate spring evening at Calvary Chapel Costa Mesa, Pastor Chuck Smith looked out at the congregation gathered under the sprawling white tent. He couldn't help but remember a similar tent in nearly the same spot 35 years before. Back then, the Southern California crowd had included polyester-clad families and long-haired flower children—many of whom would go on to become pastors and missionaries as Calvary Chapel grew to include more than 1,300 churches worldwide.

But tonight, his message wasn't about looking back; it was about looking up. ...

Kosovo Lying still in his hospital bed, the young man with the broken neck recognized Pastor Mark Yocom as he approached. This was one of the Americans who had come to his school soon after the war in Kosovo ended in 1999. ...

Vancouver Through various ways, God has called different men to grow His church in B.C., Canada—a land desperately in need of the truth of Jesus Christ.

God was his last hope. Mark MacKenzie-Moore sat by his wife, Kristy ...

Newcastle Drew and Tammy Davis stared in amazement. There in front of them were literally hundreds of "Goth kids"—young people dressed in ...

Virginia Tech

Sunlight and somberness permeated the Virginia Tech campus, the Drillfield strewn with flowers and memorials to the 32 students killed in the shooting there on April 16. At the scene a week later, a small crowd stood silently huddled behind yellow police tape. They were staring at the gaping, empty doorway and busted-out windows of Norris Hall as if they were waiting for something. Some had come to ...
